Short Description
Nat and Devon love riding their bikes more than anything else. But on this day, the road they've ridden on so many times before takes them to a place they never could have imagined. Is it a kid's paradise or a prison from which there is no escape?

Description
The House at the Top of the Trees gives both Nat and Devon everything they could have ever wanted, plus a 'mom' who is always there for them. But Nat is worried - it doesn't feel real to her, and she wants to go home.

Will they ever find their way home or has the answer been there all along, right in front of them? Or maybe they are where they are supposed to be after all, but where is that, exactly? Nat's frustration mounts as she searches for answers to her dilemma.

She's Dorothy in the 'Wizard of Oz' trying to find her way home, and even more frightening than how Dorothy finally found her way home because unlike Dorothy, Nat isn't dreaming, or is she? Join Nat and Devon as they embark on a life-changing adventure that could be the end of their lives, or a new beginning!
