Short Description

Me & Them - a collection of short, short stories, tell the events connected to each parent that, throughout Geribo's life, were responsible for forming the person she is today. Consisting of both humor and sadness, by the end you will come to love the people who, although not perfectly suited for parenthood, still did the best they could with what they knew.

Description

Me & Them is a collection of familial memories, some enhanced by the creative inspiration of DJ Geribo, who as best as she could, recounted the many every day occurrences of her childhood growing up in the late 1950s and beyond.

The photos associated with each story will give you a glimpse of what's to come. The stories themselves will keep you reading to find out more about the people who, despite their shortcomings, raised a daughter who went against the family traditions of becoming a housewife and mother to pursue an education with a BA/English degree which put her on the path to becoming a writer and an author. Her memories growing up in the 1950s and 60s are sure to bring a hint of recognition for those who grew up in those times.
